

Infant Crying Patterns

KATHY CHAVES

11/10/04

Please complete the following sentences by filling in the missing words.

Hint: In each sentence, the missing word begins with the letter to the left of the sentence.

- I Infants vary greatly in the amount and intensity of their crying.
- N It is normal for babies to cry less as they get older.
- F Don't let crying continue for more than a few minutes without investigating.
- A Babies will often stop crying after you pick them up.
- N A pacifier may be helpful if a newborn cries after being fed.
- T Some infants cry at a regular time each day or evening.
- C Babies quickly develop a range of cries or calls for help.
- R Infants always have a reason for crying.
- Y Comforting babies when they cry will help them learn to trust you.
- I Crying is sometimes a sign of pain or injury.
- N There may be times when nothing seems to help.
- G Remember to be gentle, talk soothingly, and try to stay calm.
- P Most babies are very sensitive to the feelings of the people around them.
- A Sometimes a caregiver may not be able to find a way to comfort the baby.
- T Being held or rocked by a tense person may cause the baby to cry more.
- T Infants and caregivers need time to adjust to each other.
- E Crying may be caused by a sudden change in the environment.
- R Caregivers soon learn to remember a baby's different cries.
- N Attention to comfort will not spoil an infant.
- S Soon babies learn to feel safe—that someone will come and try to help them feel better.

This was all we did today in 1st per.
and it was my second time doing
it. We really need you back!