

Microsoft's campus expansions over time

In a little more than two decades, Microsoft's Redmond headquarters has grown from a handful of low buildings tucked back among the trees in the Overlake neighborhood to a sprawling, multisite campus that spans both sides of Highway 520 for more than a mile.

NOTE: All building locations and sizes are estimates. Some leased buildings are not shown. Some buildings have since been demolished. Buildings acquired by Microsoft are shown in the period the transaction was completed.

* Some structures, such as garages and cafeterias, have been omitted from size comparisons.
